

HELLO, I'M THEA!

I'm Geronimo Stilton's sister.

As I'm sure you know from my brother's bestselling novels, I'm a special correspondent for The Rodent's Gazette, Mouse Island's most famous newspaper. Unlike my 'fraidy mouse brother, I absolutely adore traveling, having adventures, and meeting rodents from all around the world!

The adventure I want to tell you about begins at Mouseford Academy, the school I went to when I was a young mouseling. I had such a great experience there as a student that I came back to teach a journalism class.

When I returned as a grown mouse, I met five really special students: Colette, Nicky, Pamela, Paulina, and Violet. You could hardly imagine five more different mouselings, but they became great friends right away. And they liked me so much that they decided to name their group after me: the Thea Sisters! I was so touched by that, I decided to write about their adventures. So turn the page to read a fabumouse adventure about the

DISAPPEARING STUDENTS

At Mouseford Academy, the spring semester was winding down. It was time for Headmaster Octavius de Mousus to deliver his traditional end-of-term speech. He straightened his BOW TIE and strode into the GREAT HALL, but it was deserted!

The headmaster stared at the empty seats in dismay. Where were all the students?

Just then, the school handymouse, Boomer Whale, scurried in with a huge mop.

“Headmaster! What in the name of string cheese are you doing in here?” he asked.

“I was supposed to squeak to the students,” the headmaster said. “Where are they?”

Boomer smiled. “Oh, you haven’t heard?”

The Volcano Chase hits stores today! After Mystery on Ice, the students just can't wait for the next installment."

"Volcano? ICE? What are you talking about?" the headmaster asked.

"You know, the latest masterpiece from Vígmarr Ratsson, the great mystery writer," Boomer explained. "Haven't you heard of him? His books are total page-turners! I was up all NIGHT reading the last one.”

“Um . . . I . . . actually, I don’t know who he is. And I don’t understand what that has to do with my STUDENTS disappearing,” the headmaster said grumpily.

Boomer chuckled. “Headmaster, do I really need to spell it out for you? They all scampered off to the bookstore to get their copies!”

Curious, the headmaster headed for the school bookstore. A crowd of students had gathered outside, including the THEA SISTERS — best friends Colette, Nicky, Pam, Paulina, and Violet.

“Headmaster, I didn’t know you were a fan of Vigmar Ratsson,” exclaimed Violet. “Have you come to get a copy of The Volcano Chase?”

“To be honest, I just heard about the book about five minutes ago. But it must be pretty compelling reading to make everyone forget our assembly in the Great Hall,” the headmaster replied sternly.

Violet gasped and turned redder than a cheese rind. “Oh, the end-of-term speech!”

“OH NO! We forgot!” Pamela said.

“We’re very sorry . . .” Colette added.

“It’s just that the book is HOT off the presses, and we couldn’t wait to get our paws on it,” Paulina chimed in.

The headmaster smiled. “Oh, it’s all right. What kind of headmaster would I be if I complained about my students reading? But perhaps this means . . .”

The mouselets exchanged a worried LOOK: Was the headmaster thinking up a punishment for them?

“. . . that I should pick up a few BOOKS

by this author myself,” the headmaster concluded.

The Thea Sisters burst out laughing.

“You’ll go gaga for his stuff, you’ll see!” Pam said. “Ratsson’s mysteries will make your heart race. And you’ll love the setting — it takes place in the author’s homeland, Iceland!”

Violet nodded. “That’s right. We’ve learned so much about Iceland’s amazing volcanoes and geysers and glaciers.”

“Start with the first book, The Case of the Silver Waterfall,” Colette suggested. “That’s the one where Inspector Ólafur investigates a mysterious art thief who has a secret hideaway under —”

“Stop, stop!” the headmaster interrupted her. “Don’t spoil it! I want to solve the mystery myself . . . Otherwise, where’s the fun?”
