

Hosted by Scholastic
Education Digital
Resources Manager,
Sean Campbell

Scholastic Virtual Learning Series

LIMITED SPACES STILL AVAILABLE!
Contact Us
to Register!

Join Scholastic Literacy Place author and literacy consultant Sue Jackson in this FREE virtual literacy workshop.

Connecting with Students Online: Guided Reading,
One-to-One Instruction and Working in Small Groups

Wednesday, October 28th, 2020 • 7:00 p.m.-8:15 p.m. EST

- Scheduling small group and conference time to confer with students
- Implementing guided reading in an online environment
- Providing one-on-one and small group instruction
- Promoting routines that allow students to interact and collaborate with peers

Support Your Virtual Literacy Instruction in K–3 Classrooms!

Participants will explore key instructional strategies, a student-centred approach and strategic use of digital tools and resources to engage learners, and to amplify literacy instruction in synchronous and asynchronous environments. Sessions will be filled with interactive methods, flexible lessons, and manageable suggestions so participants can try out ideas right away!

PRESENTER

Sue Jackson

Sue Jackson is a passionate advocate for empowering teachers and students with her ability to ground pedagogy in authentic and practical classroom applications. Sue has extensive experience working in literacy education, inquiry-based learning, and early years' pedagogy. Sue has worked on many teaching resources for Scholastic Education, including Literacy Place for the Early Years, and has served as a national literacy consultant, providing professional development for teachers, administrators, and school districts across Canada.

Please Note:

Participants will receive a link once they register and log-in instructions to the Zoom platform approximately two days prior to the workshop date.